

Immigration Reform a Break for DREAMers Looking to Work

Published on Mon, Jun 18, 2012

IPC director Mary Giovagnoli was quoted in an Epoch Times story covering President Obama's announcement of deferred action for 'DREAMers:'

Looking past the political knee-jerk reaction, the issue is as complicated as the immigration system itself.

"Everyone is still trying to wrap their heads around this," said Mary Giovagnoli, director of Immigration Policy Center in Washington, D.C. "The process will essentially be phased in."

...

To complicate matters further, the policy could be short-lived, depending on the November results.

"A different administration could revoke the whole program," said Giovagnoli.

Published in the The Epoch Times

Source URL:

<http://immigrationpolicy.org/newsroom/clip/immigration-reform-break-dreamers-looking-work>